Today marks an important milestone in our endeavours to make our products transparent in terms of their environmental impact. From March 2024, we will be offering comprehensive environmental product declarations (EPDs) for more than 50 of our product series. This initiative underlines our commitment to transparency and sustainability in the construction industry.

An EPD is more than just a document. It is a commitment to environmental responsibility. By providing detailed information about the life cycle of our products, from resource consumption to emissions, we enable building planners and architects to make informed decisions. Our EPDs are a valuable tool for designing sustainable buildings and making a positive impact on our environment.

Our collaboration with EPD Norge, the certifying programme holder, confirms our efforts on an international level. We are pleased to announce that our EPDs are easily accessible. You can download them directly from our dedicated microsite or find them on the respective product pages under downloads.

We want to be a pioneer in the industry and show that sustainability and profitability can go hand in hand.
